The increases in wages granted firemen since i913 has been approximately 45 to 50 per cent., and the increased cost of living for that period has been almost 100 per cent. Is it any wonder there is discontent and unrest among our men?"

Stage Stars on Firing Line

Stage Sters on Firing Line

At Martera's restaurant, where the principal activity was the organization of the chorus girls, it was announced that every actor was doing some kind of strike duty. Sam Bernard was making speeches at the Friars; George Nash was "persuading" a recalcitrant who had declined to strike; Ernest Glendenning (who is scheduled to open Wednesday in "A Regular Feller" at the Cort Theatre) was pursuing in an automobile actor-friends who hadn't declared themselves; Marie Dressler telephoned to say she had hurried home from the Canadian woods and was "awaiting orders" from strike head-quarters; Blance Ring came in and volunteered for any sort of strike duty; Sophie Tucker telephoned to say she wasn't going to work during the strike even though she, as a cabaret singer, was not eligible to join the Actors' Equity Association; Pearl White addressed a gathering of striking stage folk and assured them that organization, and not the play, was "the thing."

"I've just gotten my ticket from Stage Stars on Firing Line

"I've just gotten my ticket from Equity," said Miss White. "I'm a union laborer, if you want to call me one. They try to tell us we are artists. Yes, we're artists, but—we work." Reports on Disloyal Asked

Chorus Girls Signed Up

David Bogart, an official of the Grand Opera Choral Union, a branch of the American Federation of Labor, also spoke. Then the chorus girls were called in and told that 730 of their number had signed up with the auxiliary of the Equity that is being organized for the members of the chorus. Then Ed Wynn climbed on a table and told them:

Reports on Disloyal Asked

On the walls of the restaurant dining room where the stage folks are holding their rallies are a number of large signs. One of these is headed: "Disloyal List." It reads: "We want volunteers to make them see they are wrong. We want reports on those who are rehearsing and those who have taken the places of Equity Members. Report to your captain."

Harry Jones, an organizer of the Almalgamated Street and Electric Car Workers Union, also spoke during the afternoon. He said:

"I'm a motorman and I was born an Englishman. For years you people have been saying an Englishman has no sense of humor. That may be, but this strike of yours is the funniest thing in the world to me. Who'd have thought you'd be so valgar?"

One of the strikers shouted:

"I'm New York were little, Bolshevik Paterson, N. J.," continued Jones, "the managers couldn't persuade people to come into their playhouses if the actors were on strike. Union labor would put the theatres on the unfair list.
